The SHIPS Project Study Day

ABI in education: a strategic approach

The annual SHIPS (Supporting Head Injured Pupils in Schools) Project Study Day will examine the difficulties which pupils who have an acquired brain injury (ABI) experience, and strategies which may be helpful. Most schools will have a pupil who is affected by an ABI, if not now, then in the near future. Staff, including SENCOs teachers TAs headteachers and governors, would benefit from attending this conference on meeting the needs of pupils with ABI. The conference, is also aimed at families and carers in their roles.

Date: 11 July 2019

At: The Vassall Centre, Gill Ave, Bristol, BS16 2QQ

Time: 9am to 3pm

For: Professionals, Parents and Carers

Topics for presentations will cover the challenges which occur with ABI and how to meet them at home and school. The day will provide a unique opportunity to increase understanding and develop practice skills. The presenters this year will include:

- Dr Siân Rees, Specialist Teacher
- Dr Anna Adlam, Clinical Psychologist and Associate Professor
- Anne Bardsley, Oxford SENSS

The conference will start at 9am and end at 3pm. Refreshments and lunch are included in the fee. For further details please see www.shipsproject.org.uk or contact the Conference Organisers at The SHIPS Project, email info@shipsproject.org.uk
